

HOW TO ENGAGE YOUR COMMUNITY IN THE FIGHT AGAINST HUMAN TRAFFICKING

Individuals

- Educate yourself on the issue of human trafficking by checking out TAT's Community Resources page at www.tatnonprofit.org/community-resources.
- Get involved with local organizations making an impact in your community. Organizations that support food or housing insecurity, after school or mentorship programs for kids or similar organizations help buffer against trafficking, even though they're not anti-trafficking in name.
- Support local organizations serving human trafficking survivors. Contact existing community organizations providing services to human trafficking victims and see how you can support the work already being done.
 - View TAT-vetted service providers in your state or province/territory by downloading the TAT app at www.tatnonprofit.org/app.

Parents

- Educate yourself on the issue of human trafficking. Make sure you're using reliable sources and not perpetuating myths about the issue. Explore TAT's Community Resources to find reliable sources.
- Talk to your children about human trafficking. Children need to hear about the issue from trustworthy adults that care about them. Find tips on how to talk to your child about human trafficking by visiting www.tatnonprofit.org/community-resources

Schools

- Make sure decision-makers at your local school district are aware of the free, industry-specific materials TAT School Transportation has available.
- Visit <http://www.tatnonprofit.org/training-library> to find out how to contact schools using TAT's School Transportation Outreach Kit.

Law Enforcement

- Share the link to TAT's on-demand law enforcement training modules and other training materials: www.tatnonprofit.org/law-enforcement

Truck Stops | Travel Centers | Gas Stations

- Share our Truck Stop Toolkit, available at www.tatnonprofit.org/training-library.

Transportation Industry

- Tell any professional truck or bus driver, fleet managers, rideshare or decision-makers in shipping, manufacturing or energy companies you know about TAT, and let them know there are resources available for their profession at www.tatnonprofit.org. TAT's training materials are all free and include:
 - A 20-30 minute training video and wallet card handout
 - A free, downloadable app for drivers and front-line employees that covers red flags to look for and how to report suspected human trafficking
 - Awareness posters and window decals for drivers
- Contact TAT at info@tatnonprofit.org to get started or visit www.tatnonprofit.org/training-library
