5-YEAR IMPACT REPORT

www.tatnonprofit.org/energy

MISSION

TAT's mission is to educate, equip, empower and mobilize members of key industries and agencies to combat human trafficking. To that end, we are proud to work alongside the energy industry to spread awareness about human trafficking within their companies, communities and networks. TAT's energy partners are training their employees with TAT materials, co-hosting events with TAT to build local public-private partnerships to end human trafficking, implementing internal anti-human trafficking policies, urging their carriers to train with TAT materials, leveraging their networks to open new doors for TAT and making financial contributions to further TAT's mission.

TAT'S FREEDOM DRIVER'S PROJECT AT WEATHERFORD INTERNATIONAL DURING THE ENERGY EMPOWERS FREEDOM TOUR - 2020

BACKGROUND

TAT’s early collaboration with the energy industry began in 2017, as U.S.-based energy companies started to recognize the risks of sex trafficking in the areas in which they were operating, particularly in rural communities experiencing an influx of workers during oil and gas booms. Likewise, as an industry with a significant number of professional drivers, energy companies offered TAT a pathway to train more truck drivers. TAT hosted Coalition Builds designed to bring the transportation and energy industries together with law enforcement to create local partnerships to combat human trafficking and shared its free training resources for the trucking industry with energy companies to utilize.

As anti-trafficking initiatives aligned with companies’ sustainability goals and their employees began to understand the prevalence of human trafficking in all types of communities throughout North America, energy companies started requesting niche-specific resources for more of their workforce than drivers alone. Therefore, in December 2019, in consultation with the redM Oil & Gas Awareness Group (formerly the Oil & Gas Trafficking Awareness Group) – and made possible through donations from multiple energy companies – TAT released its energy-focused training video (formerly known as Empower Freedom).

TAT ENERGY TRAINING

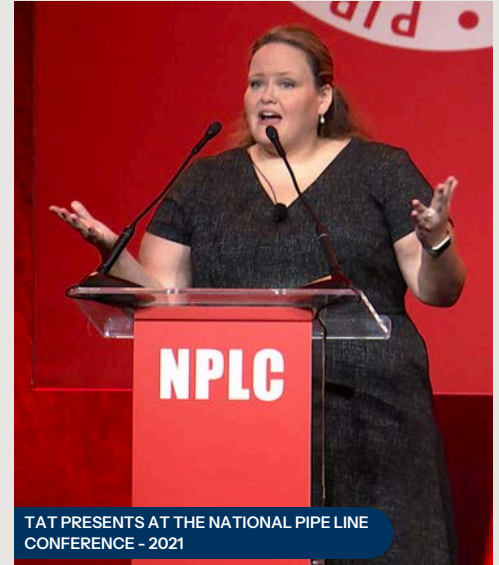

TAT’s work with energy companies strives to integrate anti-trafficking programming into all aspects of their operations and ensure that all employees are educated and equipped to recognize and report this heinous crime. TAT also encourages energy companies to activate their supply chains for social good by encouraging or mandating their contract carriers train with TAT. To date, 43 energy companies or contractors have registered a combined total of 49,127 individuals as TAT-trained.

Energy Industry Events

In the past five years, TAT has presented at 67 energy industry-related events, reaching 8,370 people.
